"Every council member would have voted no." Modrusic said.
CENCOM, Modrusic said, "owes it to the senior citizens" to reconsider the rate increase.
Rogers said he doesn't expect a rate decrease.

The solicitation ordinance would stop per-sons from collecting funds at street corners unless their organization is registered with the state and is involved in a statewide fundraising event.

Expecting an organization to be registered with the state is understandable. The city needs to be sure that groups claiming to be tax-exempt are what they claim.

But how can small organizations be expected to solicit funds as part of a stateside effort when they exist only regionally or locally?

They can't. The rule would exclude them.

The small organizations are the ones most in need of funds. Some exist from fundraiser to fund-raiser.

The Animal Protection Association, Project Help, Old Newsboys Day and, Phoenix Crisis Shelter exist locally, not statewide. If the ordinance is adopted in its presences, their fund-raising efforts at roaddecks by local groups would cease and so might the services provided: humane treatment for animals, the unemployed, the poor, and the abused.

Separating state-registered, local organizations from money needed to perform social services would be detrimental to the public's welfare and should not be adopted.

A St. Louis Circuit Court ruling could prove pivotal in the important effort to tie the Martin Luther King Bridge into the Interstate highway system.

Judge Jean C. Hamilton blocked an attempt by five bridge bondholders to separate themselves from an agreement to buy back bonds issued in anticipation of future bridge tolic.

bonds issued in anticipation of future bridge tolls.

It will be recalled that the governors of Ilinois and Missouri made a promise while standing on the Mississippi River bridge linking St. Louis and East St. Louis. They pledged state and federal funding to improve and maintain the King Bridge, make it toll-free, ease congestion, and reduce the likelihood and impact of traffic blockages on the Poplar Street Bridge.

Before the states can assume ownership and create new western access ramps, the King Bridge must be freed of debt.

East St. Louis has agreed to relinquish its title to the bridge if bond retirement can be agranged in 1987. Happily, the courts are helping, and more than $4 million has been pledged by Madison and St. Clair counties, St. Louis and the Bi-State Development Agency to retire the original construction and son dissue, each of the property on a reduced price; the offer is $549 for each $1,000 bond. The bonds are not worth their full value because the dollar-starved city has been unable to make any bond payments in recent years — not to mention unable to adequately repair the bridge as it gradually deteriorates.

The judge ruled the street of the price of t

The judge ruled the agreement offers bondholders a fair price and said the dissidents must go along with the plan, even though they regard the price as too low. The only alternative — bridges do fall down, after all—would offer them nothing at all.

Ronald L. Thompson, chairman of the governors' five-member panel that formed the new Martin Luther King Bridge Improvement Corporation, views the ruling as "an important step forward in resolving the problem of downtown bridge crossings. It paves the way for eventual repair of the bridge, which is vital to this region's transportation the way for eventual repair of the bridge, which is vital to this region's transportation network."

In this week of the national observance of the late Dr. King's birthday, it is fitting to give thought to the future role of the bridge named in his honor.

The bridge needs to play a big role in commuters' and travelers' safety and convenience, and all who can help achieve this goal should do so.

Water fee shifts fire cost to the poor

On Aug. 31, 1984, the Illinois legislature passed Public Act 83-1295 which prohibits a water company from charging for fire protection in It. allows local governments to shift some fire protection costs, such as the use of water and maintenance of fire hydrants, onto homeowners who use the public water supply. This law enables municipalities to pass on, to each water user, a flat tax for fire protection.

All home owners in the same fire district pay the same fee regardless of water users and the same fee of the con-traction of the same fee of the same in this tax is to the ordinary citizen. A man living in a $100,000 home pays the same amount as a man living in a $10,000 home.

The wealthier man pays a great deal more to the insurance company that insures his elegant home, because his fire protection is worth more to him. Your fire insurance cost is determined by the value you place on your property. Not so with fire protection fees.

Isn't this a clever-way to shift taxes from the rich to the poor?

Unfair federal budget needs repairs

To the editor:

As is traditional at this time of year,—the President has just sent Congress a budget for fiscal year 1988 setting out what he believes to be the nation's spending priorities and requesting that Congress comply.

Unfortunately, President Reagan has sent Congress a budget that has no chance of passage in its present form. It is "dead on arrival" on Capitol Hill, and it's not hard to understand George Cook, Project Help director, said his agency is registered with the attorney general, but is not involved in state-wide fund raising.

Venice's 'other guys' doing their share

By Dave Whaley Staff writer VENICE — Jesse Hall. There, we've mentioned Venice's All-American candidate who is going to Michigan State next year. He's the best high school player in the area this year. We all know that. Now that we've got that out of the way, let's move on to four more reasons why the Red Devils are 15-1, including a 14-game winning streak. After all, all of Hall's heroics alone haven't moved the Devils within a few points of the No. 1 ranking among small schools in Illinois.

the No. 1 ranking among small schools in Illinois.

No, there are at least four more reasons for that, and their names are Vincent Harris, Dale Turner, Wilfred Wigfall and Daryl Jackson While Hall has gathered most of the attention, the Devils' "other guys" have quietly and efficiently filled their roles.

Harris is the most vocal of the group, and he and Hall are the team leaders, serving as cocaptains this year. Wigfall and Turner also supply valuable experience to the team, while 'Jackson, like most high school sophomores surrounded by juniors and seniors, is the quietest of the group.

But Jackson (644) isn't shy on the court, having emerged to take the starting center job. He's averaging 8.6 points and six rebounds per game. But the other guys know it's still Hall's team. And they are more than happy to join in the fun.

"Jesse brings a lot of attention to our team and the school," said Harris (6-0), who's averaging 11.8 pile has the stiller instinct and variety of the school in the drea in assists the hall when the game is on the line."

"Other teams come to play against Jesse, but they find out they have to look at the rest of us," said Turner (8-1), the son of former Madison player Dale Turner Sr. Dale Jr. is averaging 10.1 points and four assists and is the team's most persistent defensive player.

"Aurner will probably be the team leader next year as the only returning senior starter."

"Daryl and I will probably be leaders next year," he said. "I haven't thought about it too much, but coach Harris will probably want me to score a little more than I have this year."

"Wigfall, a slender 6-1 senior forward, was the first Venice player to really take the spotlight of the Litchfield Togsinst Dupo and continued to be a point of the property of the control of the control of the said. "I haven't they are a supplied to a point of the property of the litchfield Togsinst Dupo and continued to be a point of the points per game after a slow start.

"I wasn't really satisfied with my play the first part of the year," he said. "I guess I didn't feel I had to work hard on defense because I harder, because you feel you're helping the team more."

Wigfall and Jackson have teamed with Hall to make the Devils a very good rebounding club. And rebounds at the defensive end lead to fast breaks, And that's the Red Devil way.
"Even if Jesse weren't here, we'd still run," Turner said. "That's the way the game should be played. That's the way the game should that Venice."
And this group of players didn't just get together in high school. Hall, Harris and Wigfall have been playing together on local playgrounds for years. Turner and Harris went to the same basketball camps last summer.
"We play almost every day in the summer," Turner said.

"We play almost every day in the summer, Turner said.
"People are starting to realize how good we are," said Harris. "Other teams get pumped up like crazy to play us. I saw upo the Freebug play us. I saw upo the Freebug below the good of the said when we have the said that good the said when we have the said week, they were really ready."

But not ready enough to avoid a 96-40 blowout. Harris is the only one of the four who had extensive varsity playing time last year, although Turner came on down the stretch.
"We were mostly a two-player team last year," said Harris. "Jesse and Ed Ware did most of the scoring. It's good to have two like that, but it's better when you have five players who can score."

that, but it's better when you have five players who can score."

The Devils are close to being unbeaten this year. Only a 72-59 loss to East St. Louis Lincoln in the second game of the year mars the record, and that game was too it. "Harris said." If ye had played them later in the year, we would have given them a better game, "Wigfall said. "We might have beaten them."

But every other game has gone into the win column. While the players all said they could improve their play a little bit, the most important thing is winning.
"It hink I can score a little more than I have."

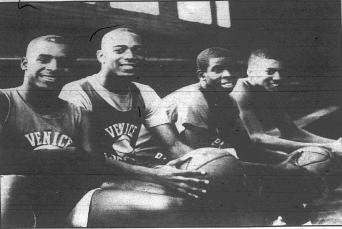

"I think I can score a little more than I have," Turner said. "But I just want to do anything it

Turner said. "But I just want to do anything it takes to win."

"I need to push myself a little more," Harris said. "Since I'm a team captain, I don't think I can be talking to the other players, telling them what to do, unless I'm doing what I have to do."

"I've been scoring a little more lately," Jackson said. "But I think I still need to work on my defense a little more."

The Red Devils play in the Illini-Gateway Conference, which is one of the weaker leagues around. All of the players wished they could play some tougher teams, but the tough non-

Both seniors, Harris and Wigfall, have started to hear from colleges interested in their continuous.

Silly boys.
America's Cup is not even a cup.
Il looks like a glorified tea pitcher, just behind the World Cup of soccer. That, too, is not a cup.

At least when we say the team won hockey's Stanley Cup, they get a cup. Even the hardly-seen Governor's Cup awarded to the winner of the Chiefs-Cardinals football game is a cup.
